Dan and April have been blessed with three children: Kayla, Leah, and Ethan. Mrs. Jessup has spent over 20 years in children and youth ministry at churches in Florida, Pennsylvania, and Virginia. SESSION INFORMATION:

Servant Leadership in Marriage: We are Role Models for the Next Generation (Men)

All of us understand that children within our own home are watching our relationship with our wife, and most often will duplicate that which they see – not necessarily what they are told. Have you considered the impact your marriage relationship has upon the next generation of your church? For those of us in ministry positions with children and teenagers from other families, we must show the example of servant leadership God has called us to possess!

Our Children – Who Do We Really Want Them to Grow Up to Be? (Ladies)

In our society, rearing godly children is becoming more difficult as each year passes! So often, we lose sight of the "big picture" and focus on the small hills we have to climb as mothers. This session will give some practical advice on how to be a mom who keeps her eyes on the goal – rearing children who love the Lord!

How to Help Children Meet Expectations in Group Behavior

Whether you have a class of 5 or a large group of a few hundred, if you do not have behavior conducive to a learning atmosphere the Holy Spirit will not be allowed to work. Uproar and riotous behavior only hinder the cause of Christ. Children and young people need to be taught and trained a godly model of conduct while in church or in a setting where the Bible is taught or preached. Precious souls hang in the balance between heaven and hell – will your leadership in behavioral expectations win the day?
